All eyes towards the meeting of the European Central bank this week brings the level of caution in the market about the possibility of resorting to the reduction of interest even be possible to address the contraction in anticipation of the risks.

Euro rises former has always been a reason to bet on a rate cut may be upward movement in this case rule ended.

President of the German Central bank said in his recent interview that the inflation outlook has not changed, which means that the risk of decline continues. This stressed the percentage of bets on the movement of the central European meeting next week.

The money supply, which was issued last Thursday, were not far from the air . Height is very slow and limited, and this means that the continuation of low inflation levels unlikely.

Price index in Germany published on Friday on the decline, and bringing with it an affirmation of the destination mentioned for inflation. French inflation index also did not differ from that of the German apartment prices on producers. Decline was -1.7 % and -1.4 % on expectations.

The euro is now moving under the influence of these bets is unlikely to see a rise influential before the date of the meeting of the Central next Thursday.

On the data front the U.S. is expected to see a rise limited to consumer confidence and rising per capita consumption of similar. Heights is unlikely to be a decisive influence on the markets for which currently living case of wait and see attitude reflected a decline in demand for the dollar .

Technical picture for the euro is not encouraging the shift to the negative has been achieved so that the true appreciation 1.3665 stations targeted this week.

Australia's central bank security to prevent further gains on the Australian dollar deep , but the difficulty lies in the realization of not having a lot of the tools necessary to do so .

Interest rates will remain for an indefinite period at the current level, according to statements made by the central "Stephens "today. All bets on a rate cut are from the past and the current rises to an Australian stream flowing into this before everything.

Even though the head of the Central confirmed to the high prices of Australian historical scale, this speech was not impressive site is located in the course of events remained high demand it.

Recent data showed a positive in GDP as in the balance of trade, which means that payment is also bullish fundamental justification.

Activation of risk appetite and satisfaction general atmosphere will push investors to search for assets, high interest rates and, of course, Australian and New Zealand remains at the top of the list in terms of high interest available from both sides

If they were compared by low interest on the rest of the major currencies.

The 0.9250 target areas for potential Australian dollar.

The 0.9085/90 and 0.9000 areas targeted support for the continuation of the upward trend

AUD – USD	SUPPORT	RESISTANCE
LEVEL 1	0.9230	0.9310
LEVEL 2	0.9190	0.9390
LEVEL 3	0.9010	0.9448
